MISSION STATEMENT

Seminary of the Southwest forms men and women for the service of Christ in lay or ordained ministry within the church and the larger society.

CONVERSATION COVENANT

A seminary community is a school of inquiry and interpretation: inquiry into the mystery of God in Jesus Christ and interpretation, in both action and reflection, of God's creative and redemptive love. Frank, confident, and trustful conversation is an essential part of our common learning. Often, though, we are led into difficult, even disturbing, conversations as we bring the length and breadth of our assumptions, hopes, opinions, and certainties, into the formative power of Christian faith. Avoiding the issues around which passion and disagreement reside might well be an easier path, but commitment to remaining in conversation with one another despite our differences is part of our calling as disciples of Jesus Christ.

In order to mark both our commitment to conversation and our recognition of the challenges, we affirm...

that we are all made in the image of God and must, therefore, treat one another with respect and dignity; that we are free to explore different ideas and beliefs as well as to grow and change theologically; that we share a common sinfulness and, therefore, will understand only partially and be mistaken frequently;

that we do not have to agree in order to love one another;

that our conversations, even our most passionate disagreements, take place in the Spirit whom we seek not to grieve.

and we strive...

to approach conversation with a willingness to listen and learn, acknowledging the value of opposing views;

to treat one another as honest inquirers, attempting to discern God's truth in a complex world;

to engage ideas without attacking or dismissing those that hold them;

to acknowledge the limited perspective of our own experience and opinions, and be open to the possibility of our views changing;

to consider the possibility that we might be mistaken, secure in the knowledge of the love and forgiveness we have all received in Christ;

to challenge one another while seeking not to give offense;

to consider challenges from others while striving not to take offense too readily;

to serve reconciliation by sharing when we have been offended;

to acknowledge stereotypes, ask for clarification in order to avoid misunderstandings, and make room for complexity.

Tuesday	Eucharist, bilingual, Hispanic emphasis
Tuesday	Evensong, chanted Evening Prayer
Wednesday	Choral Morning Prayer, chanted
Wednesday	Evening Prayer, bilingual, Hispanic emphasis
Thursday	Community Eucharist, followed by a meal

As an Episcopal community of formation, we gather regularly to share our life of prayer. Though corporate prayer occurs several times a day, we do not intend that everyone will be present for each service. However, all students are expected to develop a personal pattern of attendance at Chapel, keep that pattern faithfully, and adjust it when necessary. We have found that the most successful patterns include attending at least one worship service each day one is present on campus, at least one office service each week, and the Monday Eucharist with assembly. Students preparing for or intending to return to ordained service in the Church should expect that their pattern of worship and its role in their formation will be a topic of conversation with their advisers and be a significant source of material for annual reviews.

See the Chapel Customary for details of worship. The Chapel Customary can be found at the Chapel page on the SSW Intranet.

THURSDAY EVENING COMMUNITY EUCHARIST

All community members, family, and friends are encouraged to attend. Children are welcome at the service.

VISITORS

Please welcome visitors to Chapel services and encourage them to sign the Guest Book in the Narthex.

PRAYER REQUESTS

You may make prayer requests in the book located in the Chapel Narthex.

AROUND CAMPUS

ARCHIVES

The Archives of The Episcopal Church is located on the top floor of the Booher Library. As the national repository for The Episcopal Church, the Archives houses the records of the General Convention, the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, the Presiding Bishops, Commissions and Committees, affiliated Episcopal Church organizations and the personal papers of select individuals and serves the broader mission of the church by using its resources to support individual ministry, education, community identity and the corporate life of the institutional church. The Archives serves as an information resource for inquirers throughout the church and seminarians are welcome to visit or write the Archives with questions (research@episcopalarchives.org). Appointments to research are required. Hours are 9:00 AM to 4:45 PM Monday through Thursday and closed to the public on Friday. The Archives staff includes Mark J. Duffy (Canonical Archivist and Director), Corinne A. Collett (Records Manager-New York), Sarah Dana (Research Archivist), David E. Hales (Deputy for Administration), Whitney Hughes (Digital Archivist) and Lauren Kata (Archivist for Holdings Management).

BOOKSTORE

The Bookstore is a student-operated business. Hours of operation are posted at the bookstore. For more information about the Bookstore please see the “Bookstore” section in this handbook.

CHRIST CHAPEL

The chapel was designed by award-winning Austin architect Arthur Fehr. With its glass walls and the cross located outside the chapel itself, the building serves as a reminder that Christ died outside the city and that worship is never a retreat from the world..

COLLEGE COURT APARTMENTS

College Court efficiency apartments are available across from the seminary on Duval Street. The pool between the north and south buildings at College Court is for the use of all seminary students and families. Children under the age of 16 must be accompanied by a parent. There are student managers for each building to answer questions and assist with minor problems. Maintenance is also housed at College Court in Apartment 103 South. Only College Court residents may park at College Court, and residents are limited to one car per unit. All other cars must be on the street or in the parking lot in front of Rather House.

DIOCESE OF TEXAS

The Diocese of Texas, headquartered in Houston, maintains the Austin Diocesan Center (ADC) on campus for the administration of the West Region of the diocese. The building is located between Christ Chapel and the McDonald building. The Rt. Rev. Dena A. Harrison, DD, Bishop Suffragan of Texas, serves as the Regional Executive for the West region and currently serves as Chair of Seminary of the Southwest’s Board of Trustees. In addition to Bishop Harrison, the office houses Alicia Alcantara, Executive Assistant to Bp. Harrison and Ana Gonzales May, assistant to Commission on Ministry. Also operating out of the ADC is the diocesan Safe Church, a Ministry of Wellness and Care. Their staff lead by Rev. Dr. Carol Petty, Safe Church Minister, includes Marty Brickley, Director of Certification, and administrative assistants Danielle Tatro, Katherine Muhlenbruch and Tracy Cramer. The ADC also provides hospitality space for various visitors to the campus as well as conference room space for area congregation evening meetings and weekend Vestry Retreats.

GROUNDS & GARDENS

On the Seminary grounds and in the gardens you will encounter Texas native and adapted perennials, trees, and ornamental grasses. The Cutty Charlton Garden is located outside the south chapel windows and was dedicated in memory of the wife of Bp. Gordon Charlton, Seminary of the Southwest Dean from 1973-1982. The Community Garden is located slightly east of Booher Library, adjacent to faculty and guest parking, between Rathervue Place and 32nd Street. The garden is planted, cared for and maintained by students. All seminary community members are welcomed to harvest from the garden. Its produce, herbs and spices are on occasion used in meals served in Howell Dining Hall. Located beside the Community Garden is the community compost which helps keep unnecessary waste out of landfills while providing rich soil for our community garden. The seminary's attractive grounds are cared for by the seminary's maintenance staff.

PAPER RECYCLING DUMPSTER

A paper recycling dumpster is located behind the Howell Dining Hall kitchen for disposal of paper goods. Please do not place cardboard, plastic, glass, metals or general trash in the paper recycling dumpster.

THE SCOTT FIELD BAILEY CENTER AT RATHER HOUSE

The family of Charles and Ella Rather gave their 1910-era home and its five acres to establish the seminary campus in 1952. Both Rather daughters, Ethel and Alma, attended the University of Texas and eventually married professors. Alma and Frederic Duncalf and Ethel and Ernest Villavaso and son Ernest "Bebe" Villavaso, Jr., lived in the family house. Bebe died in 1947 after a tragic accident. The property was given in his memory. A Wayman Adams portrait of Bebe Villavaso hangs over the mantel in the All Saints Room on the first floor. Nicholas R. Brewer portraits of Charles and Ella Rather hang in the Georgia Lucas Room, also on the first floor. Upon completion of renovations to convert Rather House into the administrative center, the refreshed structure bears Bishop Scott Field Bailey's name.

THE MARTA WEEKS CAMPUS CENTER

The Weeks Center, which houses the Knapp Auditorium, Howell Dining Hall, and the Maddux Lounge, was made possible by a gift from Marta S. Weeks, MDiv, 1991. Ms. Weeks is a priest in the Diocese of Southeast Florida. Many other persons and congregations also contributed to the building of the center.

Howell Dining Hall is named in honor of Paul W. Howell. Paul was a life-long member of the Church of St. John the Divine in Houston and a leader in Diocese of Texas affairs. He also served on the Development Board of Seminary of the Southwest. The gift for the dining hall was given by John and Dela White of San Antonio, family friends of the Howells. The Dining Hall is available for social functions and can be scheduled through the Executive Assistant for Administration and Finance.

Knapp Auditorium is named in honor of Alfred Knapp and Doris Hebard Knapp and was the gift of David and Lynda Knapp Underwood of Houston. The auditorium is used as a classroom and as a venue for campus events such as the Blandy Lectures and the Harvey Lectures.

Maddux Lounge bears the name of Elizabeth H. Maddux of San Antonio, who provided the gift for the lounge. The lounge is an informal gathering place for students. It serves as the student lounge and is also the venue for the weekly Community Hour.

The Library does not charge overdue fees. Library users are asked to return items on time in consideration for others who might need them. A 24 hour drop box is available outside the library's entrance for your convenience. Courtesy notices are sent via email a week in advance of due date, and overdue notices are sent after the due date. Lost Library Property Policy

If an item from the library's collection is lost, the borrower will owe a replacement fee. If the item is available for purchase, the replacement cost will be the cost of the item at its currently available price plus a $5.00 processing fee. If the item is no longer available, the replacement cost will be determined by the Library Director but shall not be less than $25.00.

SERVICES

Library Staff

The Welcome Desk is often staffed by student workers who are trained on the use of library resources. The professional library staff is available to assist with in-depth reference inquiries, the development of search strategies, and the assessment of informational sources. Contacting the librarians ahead of your visit is recommended.

Library Instruction

Workshops designed to help students use resources efficiently and effectively are offered by library staff throughout the academic year. Watch your email for announcements or follow the Library on twitter @booher_library.

Library Cooperative

Booher Library collaborates closely with the Stitt Library at APTS, just a few blocks away. A slightly longer walk takes seminarians to the fifth largest library in the United States, the General Libraries of The University of Texas at Austin, including the Harry Ransom Center for rare books and cultural materials and the unequalled Benson Latin American Collection. All these libraries extend borrowing privileges to Southwest students [and we extend such privileges to their students] free of charge. In addition, the library participates in the TexShare program, which opens to our patrons hundreds of libraries across the state of Texas and the Southwest. We also participate in the Southwest Area Theological Library Association, which provides access to theological libraries in Texas and Oklahoma.

Photocopying & Printing

Booher Library provides two photocopiers for patron use. Scanned copies may be emailed in PDF format to your email account for free. Print copies cost 10 cents per side of print. Please pay at the Welcome Desk. Some copies for class or chapel distribution are free of charge; please ask a library staff member for details.

Interlibrary Loans

If an item needed for research is not available locally (in the collections of the Booher, Stitt, and UT Libraries), the staff – upon request – will attempt to borrow it from another library through a process called Interlibrary Loan (ILL). This service is usually free unless the lending library charges. In that event, the charges are passed on to the borrower. Please note that ILL often takes several weeks, so it is best to seek out resources well in advance of assignment due dates. You may place ILL requests directly through Seeker, the library's discovery tool, or you may contact Lisa Norman Johnson at 512-439-0350 or lisa.johnson@ssw.edu.

Carrels & Lockers

Lockers are available on the lower level of the library. Study carrels may be assigned for the year on the basis of need. After the third week of class, if you feel you need an assigned carrel for the year, please speak with a librarian.

LOISE HENDERSON WESSENDORFF CENTER FOR CHRISTIAN MINISTRY AND VOCATION

The Loise Henderson Wessendorff Center for Christian Ministry and Vocation (the Center) at Seminary of the Southwest is founded on the principle that all Christians, both lay and ordained, are called by God to ministry through the exercise of their unique gifts and skills in service to the Gospel.

The mission of the Center is to support lay and ordained Christians by offering educational programs that will enrich and strengthen their ministries, whether exercised in church-related jobs or not, and to support them in discerning what it means in their particular lives and circumstances to live a life of faith. Through its programs and degrees, the Center provides unique educational opportunities in which Christians of any denomination can deepen their knowledge of theology, scripture, and ethics by exploring how these things bear on their own spiritual development and practice. Students may also pursue more specific professional training--in chaplaincy, spirituality, or counseling.

The Center offers the following degrees and programs:

- Master of Arts in Chaplaincy & Pastoral Care (MCPC) - 72 credits hours
- Master of Arts in Counseling (MAC) - 66 credit hours
- Master of Arts in Spiritual Formation (MSF) - 48 credit hours

Most of the students are part-time, and thanks to the flexibility of these programs, are able to complete the degree at their own pace. On Saturdays students are welcomed and encouraged to attend a short informal service of Holy Eucharist in Christ Chapel from 11:45 am to 12:15 pm followed by a catered lunch in the dining hall in the Week's Center. The worship and meal are integral to the building of community as well as personal friendships.

Students in the Center Masters programs come from a variety of denominations; in fact, part of the richness of their experience is the diversity of perspectives they bring to the classroom and to our community. Courses are taught by full-time seminary faculty, as well as by adjuncts who are experts in their fields.

POLICIES

For more information on seminary policies please refer to the Academic Code & Policies manual.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE POLICY

CONCERN FOR WELL-BEING AND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF ALCOHOL AND CHEMICAL DEPENDENCY

Seminary of the Southwest is dedicated to the preparation and formation of women and men for the service of Christ in lay or ordained within the church and the larger society. Therefore, the Seminary is concerned with the total spiritual, mental, and physical well-being of its students, faculty, and staff.

The Seminary cannot guarantee the well-being of anyone, nor does it want to take away from individuals and families the stewardship of their own well-being. However, the Seminary recognizes that members of the community may be affected by a variety of problems that have the potential to undermine their well-being. The Seminary expects persons to face these problems, rather than deny or avoid them, and the Seminary pledges its practical support to persons as they seek help.

The Seminary recognizes that abuse of alcohol and other drugs is possible, and that such abuse may become habit forming or addictive. Alcohol and chemical dependency has been classified by the American Medical Association as a treatable disease. Accordingly, abuse and addiction should be approached in a caring and informed manner.

A crucial first step to overcoming alcohol and other drug addiction or dependency is personal acknowledgment of the addiction or dependency. Those who recognize in themselves their actual or potential for addiction or dependence should consult with the Director of Community Care, who will explore appropriate resources for assessment and treatment. Those who recognize in others within the Seminary community the symptoms or signs of dependency or addiction should take responsibility for helping in the process of recognition and acknowledgment of the disease, and in advancing treatment and care. Concerns regarding dependency and addiction in students should be directed to the Director of Community Care or the student's faculty advisor; concerns regarding employees should be directed to the employee's supervisor or Executive Vice President for appropriate care.

DEFINITIONS

For the limited purposes of this policy, the following terms shall have the meanings ascribed to them as indicated:

Alcohol: ethanol, especially when considered as the psychoactive and intoxicating agent in fermented and distilled liquors; a beverage (e.g., wine, scotch, beer) containing ethanol in a concentration greater than 0.5% by volume.

Alcoholic beverage: a beverage and psychoactive drug containing ethanol. Alcoholic beverages are divided into three general classes: beers, wines, and distilled spirits.

Campus: the grounds, facilities, and other improvements situated within a single parcel of real property owned and operated by Seminary of the Southwest, locally addressed as 501 East 32nd Street, Austin, Texas, and within the area bounded by East 32nd Street, Harris Park Avenue, Rathervue Drive, and Duval Street, excluding seminary housing (see also definitions of "off-campus" and "seminary housing").

Distilled spirits: all potable alcoholic liquors obtained by the process of distillation (e.g., scotch, brandy, rum, gin, vodka), but excludes fermented and malt liquors, such as wine and beer.

Expulsion: Involuntary dismissal of a student from active enrollment in the Seminary.

Non-alcoholic beverage: A beverage containing less than 0.5 percent alcohol by volume (e.g., water, Coca-Cola, milk); of, relating to, or being a beverage whose alcohol content is very low or negligible; a dealcoholized beverage.

Off-campus: any location not situated within the campus of Seminary of the Southwest (see also definitions of “campus” and “seminary housing”).

Official function: an event or activity on campus or off-campus which is organized, sponsored, and hosted by Seminary of the Southwest and funded, whether in whole or in part, by seminary funds. An off-campus event organized, sponsored, hosted and funded by a private party without the seminary’s involvement is not an official function of the seminary.

Seminary housing: a single- or multi-family residential dwelling owned or leased by Seminary of the Southwest.

Separation from employment: Termination of employment with the Seminary, whether voluntary or involuntary.

PERMITTED AND PROHIBITED USES OF ALCOHOL

Subject to the Standards of Conduct and all other provisions of this policy, the following are permitted and prohibited uses of alcohol:

- 1) Consumption of beer and wine on Seminary premises during official functions is permitted, subject to the approval requirements of this policy.
- 2) Approval of the Dean and President to provide and serve alcoholic beverages at any official function is required in advance. The person, department, or other group organizing the function at which alcoholic beverages are served shall be responsible for obtaining the Dean and President’s approval in advance of any official function at which beer and wine shall be served.
- 3) Consumption of distilled spirits on campus is prohibited at all times.
- 4) Consumption of alcoholic beverage off campus is permitted at any time.
- 5) Whenever alcoholic beverages are served during an official function, non-alcoholic beverage alternatives must always be offered with equal attractiveness and accessibility. For example, when alcoholic beverages are offered by the glass by wait staff, non-alcoholic beverage alternatives must be served by the glass by wait staff from the same location. Organizers and hosts of non-official events at which alcoholic beverages are served are encouraged to voluntarily observe this provision.
- 6) The serving of alcoholic beverages at the seminary’s events should not be publicized as an attraction of the event.
- 7) Alcoholic beverages and food containing alcohol must be clearly labeled as containing alcohol.
- 8) No alcoholic beverage may be served to any person under the age of 21 years at any time, except for sacerdotal and Eucharistic purposes.

- 9) Compliance with all applicable federal, state, and local laws governing the serving and consumption of alcoholic beverages shall be observed at all times.
- 10) It should not be assumed that alcoholic beverages will be available and served at every seminary function.
- 11) No trustee, officer, employee, or student of the Seminary may operate any motor vehicle while under the intoxicating influence of alcohol or drugs during working hours or while conducting official business of the seminary.
- 12) No faculty member, student or staff member shall work or attend classes or seminary activities while under the influence of alcohol.

CONSEQUENCE OF POLICY VIOLATION

The violation of this policy may result in disciplinary action up to and including separation from employment and expulsion.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

The Seminary expects and requires that all students, faculty, and staff exercise reasonable care and personal responsibility in their consumption of alcohol. If a student is believed to be under the influence of alcohol during class or during an activity, the faculty or staff member shall (i) direct the student to leave the class or conclude his or her participation in the activity and (ii) report the incident to the Director of Community Care for appropriate care.

Students, faculty, and staff must perform their work and complete their studies within acceptable standards. While the Seminary recognizes alcohol and other drug addiction and dependency as diseases, and seeks to assist in securing treatment, the persistent failure to meet Seminary standards for work and academic performance may result in disciplinary action up to and including separation from employment and expulsion. Ultimately, responsibility for addressing and controlling alcohol and other drug addiction or dependency lies with the individual.

The unlawful and prohibited manufacture, distribution, dispensing, possession and use of drugs on Seminary premises, or while conducting Seminary business, is addressed in the Seminary's Drug Abuse Prevention Policy.

SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

While the Seminary permits responsible consumption of alcoholic beverages on Seminary premises under limited circumstances, it recognizes that all members of the Seminary community should be sensitive to the needs and concerns of those who may experience alcohol and other drug addiction and dependency.

Accordingly, the Seminary requires that when alcoholic beverages are served at official functions, non-alcoholic beverages must also be provided.

Social events and official functions should not be focused around the consumption of alcoholic beverages, but on the purpose served by the event or function.

Because the misuse or abuse of alcohol and other drugs may be the beginning of addiction or dependence, the Seminary, through faculty advisers, pastoral resource persons, and others will be available for consultations with or about persons who seem to be at risk. The objective of such consultations is to avoid the development of more serious problems. Upon request, the Director of Community Care is available to students, faculty, and staff to provide available resources and help.

A student or employee who is convicted of a violation of a drug or alcohol statute must notify the Dean and President within five days of the conviction. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action up to and including separation of employment and expulsion.

To the extent that it is practical and advisable, Seminary personnel should maintain as confidential information concerning addiction and dependence, while recognizing that the Seminary's responsibility to the community may require appropriate disclosures.

ATTENDANCE POLICY

In all courses, regular attendance is required in order to receive a passing grade. Faculty are responsible for determining the specific level of attendance necessary for students to pass their courses. However, the number of absences permitted should not be set outside the range of 15 percent to 20 percent of the course sessions. Faculty may make exceptions in extreme cases (such as medical emergencies or death in the family), with respect to individual students, subject to the approval of the Academic Dean. The specific policy for attendance must be stated in the course syllabus.

BUSINESS EXPENSE ACCOUNTABLE REIMBURSEMENT PLAN POLICY

The seminary shall make timely reimbursement to a person who incurs a substantiated business expense on behalf of and for the benefit of the seminary, subject to the following terms and conditions:

- 5) Reimbursement of Automobile Business Mileage
Automobile business mileage shall be reimbursed at the current IRS business mileage rate when properly substantiated. An auto mileage log indicating date, place of origin and destination, business purpose, and miles driven for business purposes is required to be maintained and presented to the Accounting Department together with a check request for Miles driven shall be substantiated by either (i) a written log indicating the trip's starting and ending odometer readings or (ii) a Google maps route map (or other electronic mapping documentation in acceptable form) indicating the trip's addresses of origin and destination and route mileage.

6) Reimbursement Not To Exceed Actual Expense Incurred

In limited circumstances, a cash advance for authorized and anticipated business expenses may be issued by and at the discretion of the seminary. The amount of money advanced by the seminary must be reasonably calculated not to exceed the amount of expense anticipated. A cash advance should be requested within ten days prior to the date that the anticipated expense is to be incurred. A person receiving a cash advance must substantiate their expense to the seminary within sixty (60) days after incurring the expense and must also return any advanced amount that exceeds the actual final cost of the expense incurred, according to the provisions of paragraphs 3 and 8 of this policy.

8) Per Diem Allowance for Meals and Incidental Expenses

Employees traveling on seminary business requiring one or more overnight stays in a location outside of Austin, Texas may receive a per diem allowance for meals and incidental expenses as an acceptable allowance and reimbursement under this policy. The per diem allowance shall be determined by reference to the U.S. General Services Administration's per diem rate chart published at www.gsa.gov for the locality in which the overnight stay is made. Payment of the per diem allowance for meals and incidentals is in lieu of reporting for federal income tax and other purposes, as provided by the Internal Revenue Code, and may be made as a cash advance prior to travel or reimbursement afterwards, subject to adequate substantiation evidenced by a written itinerary attached to or incorporated within a travel and expense reimbursement request

9) Per Diem Meal Allowance Provided for the Convenience of the Seminary

A full-time seminary employee who is working overtime or outside of regular business hours for the convenience of the Seminary may request and receive a meal allowance not to exceed the amount indicated in the per diem rate chart published at www.gsa.gov. This per diem meal allowance is provided for the convenience of the Seminary under provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and is not a taxable fringe benefit.

10) Miscellaneous Provisions

- a) Reimbursement of approved business expenses may be paid by the seminary to the party incurring the expense with either (i) a check, (ii) cash or (iii) if paid to an employee, by a separate amount disclosed on the employee's paycheck.
- b) Reimbursement for an approved business expense incurred by an employee using a credit card for which the employee is a guarantor may be paid, at the seminary's sole discretion, directly to the card issuer in lieu of payment to the employee. Any reimbursement paid in this manner shall fully satisfy the seminary's reimbursement obligation as though paid directly to the employee.
- c) Benefits arising from use of a credit card for which the employee is a guarantor or co-guarantor shall remain the property of the employee, e.g., card issuer air miles, rewards points, and other benefits.

11) Neglect to Observe Reimbursement Procedures

Neglect by an employee to timely comply with provisions of this policy may result in an expense reimbursement request being denied, returned to the requestor for further substantiation when applicable, or reimbursed as a non-accountable expense reimbursement treated as taxable wages subject to federal employment tax and reporting under IRS Form W-2.

COMPUTER OPERATING, SECURITY & EMAIL POLICY

Purpose

The purpose of the policy is to help protect the seminary faculty, staff and students from liability and interruptions due to inappropriate use of seminary-owned and seminary-assigned computers and breaches of computer security. For the limited purposes of this policy, a computer includes a seminary-owned or seminary-assigned laptop, desktop, smart phone, tablet, photocopier, facsimile machine, server, or other network connected device used primarily for seminary-related business and educational purposes.

This policy documents the computer user's responsibility to safeguard computer equipment and information from accidental or deliberate unauthorized access, tampering, snooping, distribution, or destruction. It sets forth what is, and is not, appropriate use of seminary computers. Users may be disciplined for noncompliance with seminary policy. This policy does not purport to address every computer operating and security issue. It is your responsibility to use sound judgment. Should you identify an issue or situation that you are not certain how to deal with, please address your concerns to the Director of Instructional Technology.

The seminary may add to, or change, the policies at any time. All students will be responsible for reading this policy (and all policies) carefully and adhering to all policies. All students must sign a form acknowledging the location of the student handbook on the seminary's Intranet. The form will be given to each student at the beginning of each academic year. The signed form should be given to the Registrar for placement in your permanent file.

Computer Use

Computer users are responsible for the appropriate use of seminary computers, and for taking reasonable precautions to secure the information and equipment entrusted to them. Users are responsible for adhering to seminary policies and practices as described herein, and in other seminary policy manuals, to ensure seminary computers are used in accordance with seminary policy guidelines, and reasonable measures are taken to prevent loss or damage of computer information and equipment.

Unauthorized Access

Unauthorized access to seminary computers is prohibited. Unauthorized access by third-party computers (hacking), using seminary computers, is prohibited. Attempting to access seminary computers without specific authorization is prohibited. Any form of tampering, including snooping and hacking, to gain access to computers is a violation of seminary policy, and carries serious consequences. Electronic documents and applications stored on an individual student, staff, or faculty member's computer, whether such computer is privately owned or seminary-owned, may not be opened, copied, viewed, or accessed in any manner by any third-party, including students, staff, and faculty members, without the express prior permission of the assignee or owner of such computer. An exception to this provision of this policy may be made and authorized only by the Dean and President or Executive Vice President in circumstances when these officers have reason to believe a student, staff, or faculty member is abusing seminary-owned equipment or violating provisions of this policy.

Computer Sabotage

Destruction, theft, alteration, or any other form of sabotage of seminary computers, programs, files, or data is prohibited and will be investigated and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Password Selection & Protection

Students are assigned a user name and a password when they register at the seminary. The user name and password are used to access email accounts. The user name and the email name are the same. The seminary uses first name (dot) last name as the user name and email name. Example: John Doe would be john.doe@ssw.edu and his login user name would be john.doe.

Students are encouraged to choose difficult passwords and change them periodically. A lot of damage can be done if someone gets your password. Do not share your password with anyone. Do not write it down where someone can find it, do not send it over the Internet, email, dial-up modem, or any other communication line. Do not put it on a post-it note stuck to your monitor.

Easy to Remember and Hard to Crack

Another concern is forgetting your password. Getting into your computer when you have forgotten the password is, in some cases, very difficult. Select a password that is unique to you, and try to use it at least once every day.

The following is a good guideline for password selection:

- Use 8 or more characters, and at least one numeric character
- Your password should not include your login name, your name, your spouse's or partner's name, children's or pet's name, or any other names commonly known to others
- Your password should not be a word pertaining to the seminary, your work, or an activity that you participate in or follow that is commonly known
- Your password should not include anything derogatory, offensive, or defamatory

If you forget your password, contact the computer department. The computer department does not know or keep track of passwords. All we can do is allow you to reset your password to a new one.

Snooping

Snooping into seminary computer systems is a serious violation of seminary policy. If you have no business being there, don't go there. If you accidentally identify a new way to access information, report it to the computer department. Watching other users enter information, and looking at computer disks that do not belong to you, are prohibited. Obtaining, or trying to obtain, other users' passwords, or using programs that compromise security in any way, are violations of seminary policy.

Hackers

Never give any information about computer systems out over the telephone, or in any other way. If someone requests such information, get their name and phone number, and tell them you will get right back to them. Report the incident immediately to the computer department.

Without your help, the seminary has little chance of protecting the seminary's computer systems.

Using hacker programs and trying to access computer systems using hacker techniques is prohibited. Trying to hack into third party computer systems using seminary computers is prohibited, and will be reported to the local authorities. Hacker crimes result in millions of dollars of downtime, lost data, and other problems. If you are caught hacking, it is a serious offense. If you identify vulnerability in the seminary's computer security system, report it to the computer department.

Viruses, Worms, and Trojan Horses

It is critical that users make certain that data and software installed on seminary computers are free of viruses. Data and software that have been exposed to any computer, other than seminary computers, must be scanned before installation. This includes email with attachments (a virus can quickly contaminate your computer when you open an email attachment), inserting a contaminated floppy disk, downloads from the Internet and other sources of data that may be contaminated. Viruses can result in significant damage, and lost productivity. If you are uncertain whether data or software needs to be scanned before installation, ask someone in the computer department.

If you identify a virus, worm, or Trojan horse, or what you suspect to be one on a seminary computer, do not try to fix the problem. Contact the computer department. The principal concern is stopping the contamination before additional damage is done. These programs are most successful when ignored. They are designed to easily hop from application to application, contaminate a computer disk, and access another computer. They easily travel down phone, cable, ISDN, or other communication lines, infect email, data and files, and find their way to other computer systems. The key to containment is limiting the reach of the contamination.

The seminary uses a blocking system on all the computers to block files that are commonly used by virus writers. In addition, all computers are scanned for viruses, worms, etc.

Harassment, Threats & Discrimination

It is seminary policy, and the law, that students be able to work free of unlawful harassment, threats, and discrimination. Unlawful harassment is physical or verbal behavior directed towards an individual due to their race, age, marital status, gender, disability, religion, sexual orientation, or nationality for the purpose of interfering with an individual's work performance, or creating an intimidating or hostile work environment.

It is not uncommon for students to receive files, data, pictures, games, jokes, etc. that may be considered offensive by some. Currently, there are many cases in the courts addressing just such issues, the ramifications of which are significant. It is inappropriate to use seminary computers to share your personal views about religion, politics, sexuality, or any other subject of a personal nature that could be considered offensive to others within or outside the seminary. Seminary computers are not vehicles to express free speech. Do this on your own time, away from the seminary, using your own resources.

Computers provide a huge potential for unlawful harassment, so maintaining a sense of professionalism is important. Users often think their communications are private, and trashed or deleted files are gone forever. However, deleted files are often easily recovered; and information on seminary computers is not necessarily private. Users often feel comfortable writing and storing files within the confines of their "personal" computer, and sharing personal views on a wide range of non-business subjects. Remember, whatever you transmit by email is a permanent record to the receiver. It can, at some future date, be taken out of context and used against you and the seminary.

Accidents, Mistakes, & Spills

It is not hackers, snoopers, viruses, worms, or Trojan horses that cause the most damage to computers and information but the computer users themselves. According to current research, most data loss and damage to computers is done by authorized users. Mistakes and accidents represent the biggest cost when it comes to computer information loss. We have all done it: deleted a file that we just spent hours creating, spilled coffee on the keyboard, or dropped the laptop on the floor.

Take a few seconds to read the computer screen before you delete, save, or transmit files. In addition, users need to take reasonable precautions with respect to computer operations, maintenance, handling, and transportation. When placing liquids, and other food items on your desk, please be careful.

Unauthorized Changes to Seminary Computers

Installing software and making changes to computer hardware, software, system configuration, and the like are prohibited, without authorization from the computer department. The seminary's computer systems have been designed and documented to prevent loss of data, and provide an audit trail for correcting problems. Unauthorized changes to computer systems ultimately result in lost productivity. Such changes often require a computer technician to fix both the original problem and the problem caused by the would-be computer technician. Poor documentation of the procedures performed and the order in which they were completed further complicate unauthorized changes to computer systems.

The following are just a few examples of changes to computers that can result in operating problems:

- Installation of commercial software, shareware, and free software. Some software requires an upgrade of computer hardware, the operating system, or both for the program to operate properly. Some programs are simply not written well, and can cause problems with the computer
- Installation of some programs changes the computer's system configuration, which can result in problems with your computer
- Data used on home computers may become infected with a virus, and contaminate your computer and other seminary computers.

The list of potential problems goes on and on. Get approval from the computer department before making any changes to seminary computers.

Reporting Policy Violations

Computer users of the seminary are asked to report violations, or suspected violations, of computer policy to the computer department. Examples of violations include:

- Attempts to circumvent established computer security systems
- Use, or suspected use, of virus, Trojan horse, or hacker programs
- Obtaining, or trying to obtain, another user's password
- Using the computer to make harassing or defamatory comments, or to in any way create a hostile work environment
- Using the computer to communicate inappropriate messages or jokes that may be considered offensive by others
- Illegal activity of any kind
- Trying to damage the reputation of the seminary, or of an employee of the seminary, in any way

Computer policy violations will be investigated. Noncompliance with the seminary's student computer policy may result in discipline up to, and including, termination. Computer users of the seminary that report violations or suspected violations of seminary policy will be protected from termination, discrimination, harassment, and any other form of retaliation. Hackers, snoopers, password stealers, virus installers, data erasers, and anyone involved in such activity will be disciplined.

Privacy

Monitoring Computer Communications and Systems

Many people think data stored on computers, transmission of data between individuals, and email are private, and in most cases they are. However, the seminary reserves the right, without prior notice, to access, disclose, use, or remove both business and personal computer communications and information, and will do so for legitimate business purposes.

Random audits to verify that seminary computers are clear of viruses, and used in accordance with seminary policy, may be performed. The seminary will investigate complaints about inappropriate images on computers, inappropriate email, or other inappropriate conduct. The seminary may monitor Internet activity to see what sites are frequented, duration of time spent, files downloaded, and information exchanged. Again, computer systems and information are seminary property, and should be used principally for said purposes.

It is the seminary's fiduciary responsibility to:

- Establish and enforce policy to help prevent the violation of personal rights and illegal acts
- Reduce the risk of liability and business interruption to the seminary.
- Maintain a professional environment where computer abuse will not be tolerated.

Internet Connections

Internet connections are authorized for specific seminary needs only. Furthermore, the following activities are prohibited without computer department authorization:

- Downloading copyrighted material without the permission of the copyright holder, including data, files, programs, pictures, screen savers.
- Copying the seminary's programs, files, and data to be used on other non-seminary computers.
- Transmitting important, confidential, or proprietary seminary information

The following actions are prohibited under any circumstances:

- Portraying yourself as someone other than who you are, or the seminary you represent
- Accessing inappropriate web sites, data, pictures, jokes, files, and games

- Inappropriate chatting, email, monitoring, or viewing
- Harassing, discriminating, or in any way making defamatory comments
- Transmitting junk mail, chain letters, or soliciting for commercial, religious, charitable, or political causes
- Gambling or any other activity that is illegal, violates seminary policy, or is contrary to the seminary's interests

Business Reputations

Please keep in mind, a statement or posting of information on the Internet can cause serious damage, because information can be quickly and effectively disseminated. The seminary, and the law, can and will hold you responsible for offensive, discriminatory, and defamatory statements, or any other illegal activity.

CREDIT HOUR POLICY

The credit hour is the basic unit of measurement for college credit. At the seminary, the standard unit of measure is based on the "Carnegie Unit". It is the normal standard of measurement used in transferring credits from institution to institution.

The definition of the "credit hour" at the seminary applies equally to all degree programs, and equally to courses of varying credits, duration, and modes of instruction. The norm for consideration of a credit hour consists of a minimum of one fifty-minute hour per week of in-class instruction and a minimum of two hours of outside work for the student over 13 weeks, plus either a 14th week of instruction or a week of out-of-class independent learning in which exams are taken or papers are produced. Most courses at the seminary are offered for three credit hours.

Course syllabi are expected to list the amount of work required to earn the credits.

For courses in the Master of Divinity Degree (MDIV) program that are related to field education, there will be an expectation of the amount of time invested. The Theological Field Education Manual lists the amount of contact hours for the different courses related to field education. (See clock hour to credit hour conversion below)

For a 3 credit-hour independent study, there will be a minimum of fourteen contact hours with a professor in the field of study for the IDS, and an expectation of at least 112 hours of outside work for the student for the length of the semester, or a minimum of 14 weeks.

The clock hour to credit hour conversion applied for field education purposes:

Working from the standard of 3 hours per week per credit hour in a 14 week semester, in field education a one-credit course requires a minimum of 42 contact hours and a three-credit course requires 126 contact hours. These include the practice of ministry, supervision done in individual or group sessions, colloquies, and the production of written work including learning agreements, ministry reports and reflections and a self-evaluation.

DISABILITY POLICY

The seminary is committed to providing reasonable access to facilities and learning opportunities for students with documented disabilities.

Students with a disability who desire reasonable accommodation must submit documented evidence of the disability to the Academic Dean as soon as possible after admission to the seminary.

Accommodations will not be made without a request by the student and documented evidence of the need for the accommodation.

Students are expected to avail themselves of services and equipment (where applicable) provided by the various governmental and social service agencies designated for providing such aids to persons with disabilities.

The seminary will assist students in coordinating services with faculty and other offices as necessary.

DRUG ABUSE PREVENTION POLICY

It is the desire of the seminary to provide the highest quality of education, as well as an environment that facilitates learning and Christian growth. All students, faculty, trustees, and full or part-time employees are expected to live according to the highest standards of Christian behavior. The seminary is committed to maintaining a drug-free campus and therefore adopts this drug abuse prevention policy, effective November 02, 2005. This drug abuse prevention policy applies to all students, faculty, trustees, and full or part-time employees.

1. The unlawful possession, manufacture, use, sale, distribution or dispensation of any quantity of any prescription drug or controlled substance on the seminary's owned or controlled property or at any seminary sponsored activity, function or event is absolutely prohibited. The only exception to this drug policy is the use of a prescription drug in accordance with the written instructions of a licensed physician. Controlled substances include, but are not limited to, marijuana, cocaine, cocaine derivatives, heroin, amphetamines, barbiturates, LSD, PCP, inhalants, and substances typically known as "designer drugs" such as "ecstasy" or "eve." The seminary will support all local, state and federal laws relating to drug abuse.
2. Use of a controlled substance at an official seminary function or on the seminary site that adversely affects function or performance is prohibited. Warnings about prescribed or over the counter medications and their impact on an individual must be heeded. Assistance from advisors or supervisors may be required to make necessary adjustments to ensure an individual's safety and the safety of others. The seminary may require a student or employee who's functioning or performance is adversely affected to submit to a drug assessment, at the sole option of the seminary, after consultation with the student or employee and his or her advisor or supervisor.
3. After investigation and hearing, the seminary may impose disciplinary action for violation of this drug abuse prevention policy, ranging from a verbal or written reprimand, forfeiture of financial aid, and/or eviction from seminary housing to immediate expulsion for students; suspension without pay for an appropriate period or immediate termination of employment for employees; or the initiation of proceedings for the removal of tenured faculty, at the sole discretion of the seminary. The seminary also reserves the right to notify a student's bishop or other sponsor concerning such violation and the disciplinary action taken by the seminary.
4. The seminary desires to assist any student, faculty member, trustee or employee in obtaining pertinent information on drug abuse or in entering an appropriate, medically supervised treatment program. Please contact the Director of Community Care or your faculty advisor (students) or your supervisor (employees) for further counseling or guidance.
5. Although the conditions of drug dependency may be considered a disability or handicap under state and federal law, and this group will not be discriminated against because of this possible disability or handicap, all persons are considered to be responsible for their actions and their conduct.
6. The intent of this drug abuse prevention policy is to be preventative and remedial, not punitive. If you have questions or concerns about this policy and/or your relationship to it, please see the Dean and President of the seminary.

EMAIL UTILIZATION POLICY

All seminary students have an on-campus email address. Email is to be the primary method of campus communication. It is recommended that email be checked at least daily.

Campus paper mail will be the secondary means of distributing information, used for items such as contracts, letters, or class papers. It is recommended that campus mailboxes be checked at least every other day.

Another view, a weekly informative email, plus Monday chapel announcements will serve as backup sources of information. Both can be viewed on the Intranet.

Due Process

The seminary will cooperate fully with local, state, or federal officials in any investigation related to any illegal activities conducted through the school email system. The seminary also reserves the right to monitor and read any email created on the seminary system at any time.

Electronic Communications

Email is a wonderful tool. Used correctly, it can provide significant efficiencies, and improve the quality of the way we do business. It makes dissemination of information easy and cost-effective. Please take full advantage of it for the seminary business.

The same standards of decorum, respect, and professionalism that guide us in our face-to-face interactions apply to the use of email.

Ensure that you know how to use all the features of the seminary email program.

Incidental or occasional use of email for personal reasons is permitted. However, only seminary personnel are allowed access to the seminary email system. The following email activity is prohibited:

- Accessing, or trying to access, another user's email account
- Obtaining or distributing another user's email account or logon credentials
- Using email to harass, discriminate, or make defamatory comments
- Using email to make off-color jokes or send inappropriate email to third parties
- Transmitting seminary records within, or outside, the seminary without authorization
- Transmitting junk mail, chain letters, or soliciting for commercial, religious, charitable, or political causes

Seminary computer users are required to report inappropriate use of email.

Appropriate email etiquette is essential to maintaining a productive and professional work environment. Comments that might be made at parties, in elevators, and on the telephone are now done via email. However, email does not disappear into thin air. It can be widely, easily, and quickly disseminated. Email can be edited, forwarded, distributed, and filed for later use, possibly at the most inopportune time. For professionals with electronic recovery skills, email is a gold mine. If you would not put it in a memorandum on seminary letterhead, do not say it with email!

Forwarding Information

Email makes attaching files and forwarding data a snap. However, the damage from forwarding something to the wrong person may be serious. Please take a minute to think through the appropriateness of all the parties you are forwarding to. If you receive an email (particularly email with an attachment) and intend to forward it to others, consider the following:

Is any of the information unnecessary or inappropriate for any individual?

Would the author take exception to, or be embarrassed by, your forwarding the information? (A good rule of thumb is to copy the author.)

Might the information be received negatively?

Might the information be misunderstood?

Is the receiver likely to forward the information to individuals that should not have, or do not need, the information?

Do the attachments have viruses?

If the answer to any of these questions is yes, do not forward the information. Edit it, or create a new file. A bad decision results in misunderstanding, hurt feelings, and added work.

Electronic Signatures

It is recommended that all Seminary employees' emails issued for official business and education purposes include a digital signature block bearing the sender's name, position title, Seminary name and address, and the sender's telephone contact information. Following is an example of a digital signature block which can be setup in gMail using the settings feature:

Pat Smith,
Associate Professor [of discipline] Seminary of the Southwest
501 E. 32nd Street
Austin, Texas 78705
Tel (512) 472-4133 [or direct dial number] www.ssw.edu

It is recommended, but not required, that all Seminary employees' emails issued for personal business exclude the above- suggested signature block information.

EMERGENCY CONTACT POLICY

Mandatory Provision of Emergency Contact Information

It is the policy of the seminary to require all staff, faculty, and students to provide the seminary with emergency contact information including, specifically, the name, relationship, address, and telephone numbers of a person or persons designated to receive notification and information from the seminary in the event of an emergency. In providing emergency contact information to the seminary, a member of the staff, faculty, and student body expressly consents to the seminary's disclosure of information, without limitation, to the person or persons so designated to receive emergency notification in the case of emergency.

EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT PLAN

See the Emergency Management Plan for procedural instruction for on-campus emergencies. The Emergency Management Plan can be found on the SSW Intranet under the Department tab "Communications."

Requirement for Updating Emergency Contact Information

In the interest of maintaining current and reliable emergency contact information, students, staff, and faculty shall be responsible for notifying the Office of the Executive Vice President of any change in their emergency contact information so that the Seminary's records may be timely updated.

FUNDRAISING AND SOLICITATION ON CAMPUS POLICY

Students, former students, faculty or staff shall neither use campus mailing lists, community bulletin board lists, or seminary facilities for independent fundraising nor make other commercial solicitations in the community.

Requests to plan special events to benefit special causes must be made in writing to the Dean and President or the Executive Vice President, either one or both of whom, in consultation with the Dean's Council, are authorized to approve such requests

HOMELESS POLICY

The seminary affirms ministry to the homeless. However, for the safety of members of the community an unescorted homeless person should be asked to vacate Seminary of the Southwest property. If the individual does not leave, call 911. The Austin Police Department will then come to campus, and criminal trespass charges can be filed. It is necessary to follow this procedure before police can be asked to forcibly remove an individual from seminary property.

HOUSEKEEPING POLICY

Purpose

This policy sets forth standards of performance for routine sanitation, and housekeeping. In general, the purposes of these standards are:

1. To provide a suitable physical environment for teaching and learning
2. To protect the health and safety of both students and employees of this institution
3. To promote a community pride in our physical facilities and to develop good public relations
4. To preserve and protect the public's investment in our physical property

Reasonable adherence to this policy ensures that our facilities and grounds are kept clean, in good order, and presentable to the community. The Director of Housekeeping, together with the understanding and support of the Seminary community, is responsible for ensuring the standards of performance outlined in this policy.

10. Floor finish removal: Removal of all floor finish down to the flooring material, using compound especially prepared for this purpose, with brush or stripping pad, or steel wool agitation as required, followed by rinsing with plain water to remove all floor finish, solution, dirt, and film. Compound shall be kept free of painted surfaces and all other surfaces which might be adversely affected by contact with it. Floor finish removal has been accomplished when all surfaces have all floor finish removed down to flooring materials, floor is left free of all dirt, stains, deposits, debris, cleaning solution and standing water. The floor has a uniform appearance when dry.
11. Primary floor finish: Application of two coats of floor finish over the entire floor, with thorough polishing after each coat. The floor will have a uniform sheen without brush marks when completed.

INSTITUTIONAL FINANCIAL AID POLICY

Seminary of the Southwest provides scholarship grants to students with demonstrated financial need. Endowments and gifts from supporters provide the resources for this support. As a matter of institutional policy, the seminary seeks to practice good stewardship in the administration of all scholarship programs. In so doing, the seminary discourages students from incurring debt in order to attend and the seminary awards as much aid as possible, preferring to err on the side of generosity.

To qualify for consideration for a scholarship grant, an applicant must complete the Financial Aid Evaluation form, including full disclosure of available financial resources as well as a proposed budget of income and expenses for the period for which the grant is sought. An applicant's most recent federal income tax return is part of the documentation required. Normally, financial aid is granted on a year-to-year basis with annual reapplication and review. Recipients of institutional financial aid shall notify the Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance of any significant changes to their personal financial circumstances as soon as they occur. A significant change includes new debt incurred, higher or lower income and expenses, and exigent circumstances, as the case may be.

The total amount of institutional financial aid granted by the seminary will not exceed demonstrated need. Demonstrated need is defined as the difference between the total cost of attending this institution and the total resources available to the student from all other sources. In reaching that determination, the seminary shall follow these eligibility qualifications:

- 1) Applicants shall seek support from their dioceses and parishes, and students are also required to demonstrate that they have applied to major outside sources of support. Southwest will assist students in identifying such sources.
- 2) In reaching a conclusion concerning demonstrated need, Southwest will not normally weigh the value of assets such as retirement accounts, equity in one's homestead, the cash value of life insurance policies, and college funds for children.
- 3) In evaluating demonstrated need, Southwest will consider assets such as the following: Equity in second or third homes, equity in rental properties, vacation homes, and "mother-in-law" homes. In addition, applicants should be prepared to justify a need for multiple automobiles.

All routine and realistic expenses associated with maintaining a household are allowable, with the following qualifications:

- 1) Debt service on an applicant's own previous student loans shall be excluded as an allowable expense.
- 2) On a case by case basis, Southwest will evaluate the spouse's employment situation before reaching a decision on an award of aid.
- 3) In considering allowable expenses, Southwest shall follow these specific guidelines: 50 percent of tithes and charitable giving will be allowed; annual automobile debt service shall be capped at $4,000; exercise or fitness club expenses shall be capped at $350 annually; life insurance premiums shall be capped at 5 percent of income. In this context, both institutional and outside scholarship aid shall be factored as an available resource.
- 4) Expenses not allowed include the following: Student loan payments for spouse and children; children's college tuition; contributions to children's college fund; service on pre-existing credit card debt; storage costs for household goods; debt service other than for a home mortgage, taxes, and other expenses associated with non-owner occupied real estate.
- 5) Tuition for Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE) classes, if any, should be included as an allowable expense item on the financial aid application. The optional cost of CPE units beyond the seminary's one-unit requirement is not an allowable expense.

MDiv, MAR, DAS and DTS †

For students in the above named programs, up to 100% financial aid is available to eligible full-time students (12 hours or more). Aid will not exceed $12,310 for a full scholarship plus $1,500 in guaranteed work-study compensation per year. This represents a full-time, full tuition scholarship.

Up to 50% financial aid is available to eligible part-time students (11 credit hours or less) in the above named programs.

MAC, MCPC, MSF, DSF and DTS †

For students in the above named programs, up to 50% financial aid is available to those students who are eligible regardless of the number of credit hours taken. In addition, students in these programs are eligible to participate in work study, subject to the availability of assignments and funding.

Additional Information

Financial aid is available to eligible students as long as the institutional funds are available. Scholarship funds have been made possible by generous donors, and the majority of scholarship funds have been restricted by the donors for students preparing for ordained ministry. Therefore, at the current time, there are fewer scholarships available for non-ordination track programs. Seminary of the Southwest strives to be as generous as possible with available financial aid resources. Renewal of scholarships is always dependent on available funds and upon a student's demonstrated financial need and other eligibility requirements.

When a financial aid award includes a work-study assignment, the student is required to complete the minimum requirements of that assignment.

Increases in tuition may or may not be accompanied by changes in the amount of aid.

† DTS students taking a majority of their courses from the daytime curriculum on the non-ordination track will be eligible for up to 80% financial aid. DTS students taking a majority of their courses from the daytime curriculum on the ordination track will be eligible for up to 100% financial aid. DTS students taking a majority of courses from The Center's program, will be eligible for up to 50% financial aid.

MANDATORY REPORTING OF SEXUAL HARASSMENT AND ABUSE OF A CHILD

MANDATORY REPORTING OF CHILD ABUSE

All persons covered by this policy shall timely notify appropriate law enforcement authorities if at any time they suspect or personally observe an incidence of neglect, sexual harassment or abuse of a child, whether such incident occurs on campus, at seminary housing, or at any function or activity of the seminary. In addition, there are other mandatory reporting requirements outlined in this policy.

All provisions of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas' Safeguarding God's Children policy are incorporated herein by reference and made a part of this seminary policy.

WHEN YOU SUSPECT CHILD ABUSE OR NEGLECT: A GENERAL GUIDE

We all have the responsibility to protect children from neglect, sexual harassment, and abuse of any kind. If you suspect harassment, abuse or neglect of a child, it is your unavoidable legal duty to report it immediately to law enforcement authorities.

Anyone having cause to believe that a child's physical or mental health or welfare has been or may be adversely affected by neglect, sexual harassment or abuse has an unavoidable legal duty to report the case immediately to a state or local law enforcement agency or to the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services (TDFPS).

TDFPS has a toll-free, 24-hour Family Violence Hotline: 1-800-252-5400

YOUR LEGAL OBLIGATION TO REPORT CHILD ABUSE TO TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF FAMILY AND PROTECTIVE SERVICES

Current Texas law requires that professionals including, but not limited to, educators, administrators, doctors, nurses, and childcare workers must make a verbal report to the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services (TDFPS) within 48 hours of having knowledge or reason to believe the abuse occurred or may occur. Failure to report suspected child abuse or neglect is a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of up to 180 days and/or a fine of up to $2,000 (Texas Family Code, Chapter 261).

All persons covered by this policy have an additional duty to report in writing their suspicion, personal observation or reliable knowledge of child sexual harassment, neglect and abuse occurring on campus, at seminary housing, or at any seminary function or activity to the Seminary's designated officers and faculty who are identified last below. A report must be made to any one or more of these designated officers and faculty within forty-eight (48) hours of observing or receiving the information.

YOUR LEGAL PROTECTION

Your mandatory report to law enforcement authorities of suspected or observed sexual harassment, neglect or abuse of a child is confidential and immune from civil or criminal liability as long as the report is made in "good faith" and "without malice."

In good faith means that the person making the report took reasonable steps to learn facts that were readily available and at hand. Without malice means that the person did not intend to injure or violate the rights of another person. Provided these two conditions are met, you will also be immune from liability if you are asked to participate in any judicial proceedings that might result from your report.

If you suspect abuse:

- DON'T try to investigate;
- DON'T confront the abuser, and;
- DO report your reasonable suspicions, as outlined in this policy.

It is not up a person making a report to determine whether suspicions are true. A trained investigator will evaluate the child's situation. Even if the report does not bring decisive action, it may help establish a pattern that will eventually be clear enough to help the child.

WARNING SIGNS OF ABUSE

Suspect physical abuse when you see the following:

- 1) Frequent injuries such as bruises, cuts, black eyes or burns, especially when the child cannot adequately explain their causes;
- 2) Burns or bruises in an unusual pattern that may indicate the use of an instrument or a human bite; cigarette burns on any part of the body;
- 3) Frequent complaints of pain without obvious injury;
- 4) Aggressive, disruptive and destructive behavior;
- 5) Lack of reaction to pain;
- 6) Passive, withdrawn, emotionless behavior;
- 7) Fear of going home or seeing parents;
- 8) Injuries that appear after the child has not been seen for several days, and;
- 9) Unseasonable clothes that may hide injuries to arms or legs.

Suspect neglect when you see the following:

- 1) Obvious malnourishment;
- 2) Lack of personal cleanliness;
- 3) Torn and/or dirty clothes;
- 4) Obvious fatigue and listlessness;
- 5) A child unattended for long periods of time;
- 6) Need for glasses, dental care or other medical attention;
- 7) Stealing or begging for food, and;
- 8) Frequent absence or tardiness from school.

Suspect sexual abuse when you see the following:

- 1) Physical signs of sexually-transmitted diseases;
- 2) Evidence of injury to the genital area;
- 3) Difficulty in sitting or walking;
- 4) Frequent expressions of sexual activity between adults and children;

- 5) Pregnancy in a young girl;
- 6) Extreme fear of being alone with adults, especially if of a particular gender;
- 7) Sexually suggestive, inappropriate or promiscuous behavior;
- 8) Knowledge about sexual relations beyond what is appropriate for the child's age, and;
- 9) Sexual victimization of other children.

A Disclosure

If you are the first person the child tells about sexual abuse, your testimony as "outcry witness" may be especially important in future legal proceedings. What you say the child told you is not considered hearsay but is admissible evidence in a trial involving a sexual offense against a child.

You Are Responsible for a Child's Safety

If you permit a child to be in a situation where he or she may be injured, then you may be prosecuted for child abuse. The fact that the abuser is a parent or other family member does not remove your obligation to protect the child.

If you are frightened for your own safety or that of a child, call 9-1-1 or Texas Department of Family and Protective Services at 1-800-252-5400.

Reporting to the Seminary's Designated Officers and Faculty

The Seminary has designated the following officers and faculty to receive written internal reports of suspected or observed sexual harassment, neglect or abuse of a child:

Dean and President
Executive Vice President
Academic Dean
Director of Community Care

Seminary of the Southwest
501 East 32nd Street
Austin, Texas 78705
Telephone (512) 472-4133

NON-DISCRIMINATION POLICY

The seminary admits students without regard to race, sex, color, nationality, ethnic origin, or sexual orientation to all the rights, privileges, programs, and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the school. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, nationality, ethnic origin, or sexual orientation in the administration of its admissions policies, financial aid and loan programs, educational policies, housing policies, student activities, student employment, and all other school administered programs.

PET POLICY

No unleashed pet is allowed on the campus proper at any time.

No pet is allowed inside office and instructional buildings during normal business hours.

No pet is allowed in Rather House, Booher Library, kitchens, or dining venues at any time.

If a pet exercises any “call of nature” while on seminary-owned property, it is the pet owner’s and custodian’s responsibility to remove and dispose of their pet’s solid waste immediately and in a satisfactory manner. Likewise, a pet’s liquid waste must be rinsed from surfaces other than groundcover.

If a pet has bitten, or attacked a person or other domesticated pet, the attacking pet must be permanently removed from seminary premises and may not occupy any seminary-owned property, including student housing, at any time

This policy shall be included in all residential lease agreements applicable to seminary-owned properties.

Exceptions

Service dogs and assistance animals trained to aid or assist a person with a disability or impairment are allowed on campus and inside office and instructional buildings without limitation at all times.

RELEASE OF ACADEMIC RECORDS POLICY

It is the policy of the seminary to provide and release academic records, upon written request of the student, within 21 days of the seminary’s receipt of such request; provided, however, the student has no unpaid financial obligation to the seminary.

It is the policy of the seminary to withhold a student’s transcript (official or unofficial) and diploma in the event the student has an unpaid financial obligation to the seminary. The accounting department shall inform the Office of the Registrar to place a hold in the registration software system until the student’s financial obligation has been paid in full

REQUIRED QUESTIONNAIRE POLICY

It is the policy of the seminary to require students to participate in and complete two questionnaires related to assessment and evaluation. Incoming students will be required to take the Entering Student Questionnaire prior to registration. Graduating students will be required to take the Graduating Student Questionnaire prior to commencement.

RETURN OF TITLE IV FUNDS POLICY

All students who withdraw from the Seminary must submit written notice of withdrawal to the Registrar's Office.

If a student, who is disbursed Title IV financial assistance, withdraws or stops attending class the semester in which the Title IV aid was disbursed, the following Return of Title IV Funds policy will be applied.

The Financial Aid Office is required by federal statute to recalculate federal financial aid eligibility for students who withdraw, drop out, are dismissed, or take a leave of absence prior to completing a payment or term. The federal Title IV financial aid programs must be recalculated in these situations.

If a student leaves the institution prior to completing a payment period or term, the financial aid office recalculates eligibility for Title IV funds. Recalculation is based on the percentage of earned aid using the following Federal Return of Title IV funds formula R2T4:

Percentage of payment period or term completed = the number of days completed up to the withdrawal date divided by the total days in the payment period or term. (Any break of five days or more is not counted as part of the days in the term.) This percentage is also the percentage of earned aid.

- Unofficial Withdrawals

If a student does not officially withdraw from all classes but fails to earn a passing grade in at least one course, federal aid regulations require that we assume the student has "unofficially withdrawn," unless it can be documented that the student completed the enrollment period. Unofficial withdrawals require a Title IV refund calculation at the midpoint of the enrollment period. The reduction of federal aid will create a balance due to the institution that must be repaid.

- Title IV Refund Process

Funds are returned to the appropriate federal program based on the percentage of unearned aid using the following formula:

Aid to be returned = (100% of the aid that could be disbursed minus the percentage of earned aid) multiplied by the total amount of aid that could have been disbursed during the payment period or term.

If a student earned less aid than was disbursed, the institution would be required to return a portion of the funds and the student would be required to return a portion of the funds. Keep in mind that when Title IV funds are returned, the student borrower may owe a debit balance to the institution.

If the student earned more aid than was disbursed to him/her, the institution would owe the student a post-withdrawal disbursement which must be paid within 120 days of the student's withdrawal.

The institution must return the amount of Title IV funds for which it is responsible no later than 45 days after the date of determination of the date of the student's withdrawal.

Refunds are allocated in the following order:

- Unsubsidized Direct Stafford Loans
- Direct Plus Loans

Failure to attend class or failure to resign properly could cause the student to receive a letter grade of "F" in all courses. In this case, the student would still be subject to the return of funds policy once an official withdrawal date is established. Merely discontinuing class attendance is not considered to be a formal resignation from the Seminary. Students who were awarded financial assistance and who discontinue class attendance may be held responsible for repayment of all tuition and fees.

Please refer to the “Attendance Policy” section of the Southwest Student Handbook for requirements on class attendance.

In the event of a Seminarian’s withdrawal, or in the event a postulant or student otherwise ceases to attend the Seminary, then the institutional refund policy will be applied and tuition will be adjusted per the institutional tuition refund policy. The student may be liable for any Title IV funds disbursed to their account in excess of the amount allowed by federal regulations. The school will collect the portion of any assistance owed by the student. If no payment is received, holds will be placed on the student’s account and the student will lose eligibility for Title IV aid unless the overpayment is paid in full or satisfactory repayment arrangements are made. After the institutional refund has been credited, any remaining amount will be returned to the student.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS POLICY

Criteria for Satisfactory Academic Progress in accordance with Program Integrity Rules effective July 1, 2011

These Graduate Satisfactory Academic Progress requirements (“SAP”) are mandated by federal regulation and established by school policy. They must be uniformly applied to any recipient of Federal Student Aid. Effective with the enactment of the Program Integrity Rules of July 1, 2011, new regulations to measure satisfactory academic progress have been put into effect. These new regulations, in tandem with Seminary of the Southwest’s school policies, will be applied and used as the criteria to measure students’ satisfactory academic progress for purposes of establishing eligibility for Federal Student Aid.

The seminary grading system, as described in Section II. D. of the Academic Code is approved by our principal accrediting agencies, the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools Commission on College and the Association of Theological Schools. Under this system, grade point averages are not computed, even when the student receives letter grades. However, the seminary will use the standards below in order to calculate SAP in accordance with the Program Integrity Rules. Grade point averages will be calculated within the seminary’s PowerFaid’s financial aid software program, but not published on student’s transcripts.

The following chart will be used to assign grade points to each letter grade earned:

Letter	Grade Points
A	4.0
A-	3.7
B+	3.3
B	3.0
B-	2.7
C+	2.3
C	2.0
F	0.0

Grades earned under the “S” or “U” option do not carry grade point values and are not computed in Seminary of the Southwest’s grade point average to calculate SAP.

Each recipient of Federal Student Aid at the Seminary (“SSW”) will be reviewed for SAP at the conclusion of each payment period, including Fall, Spring and Summer semesters. Financial Aid SAP is based on qualitative as well as quantitative standards:

- Grade Point Average: This qualitative measure requires graduate students to maintain a minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.500 for all attempted courses, including grades earned for preparatory and/or transfer credits accepted by SSW.
- Completion Rate: This quantitative measure requires graduate students to maintain a cumulative completion rate of 75% of the attempted coursework in any semester (including preparatory and/or transfer hours accepted by SSW.) This percentage is determined by dividing the number of hours completed by the total number of hours attempted. Attempted hours are the total number of hours successfully completed (earning a grade of A, B, or C) plus the credits attempted but earning grades of “W”, “I”, or “F”.

- Timeframe to Complete Academic Program:

This quantitative measure limits the number of credit hours attempted overall during the pursuit of a graduate degree. The maximum attempted hours are 150% of the credits required to complete the student’s program of study. For purposes of obtaining a graduate degree at SSW, the maximum is dependent upon the degree sought, including preparatory and/or transfer credits. Students contemplating degree plan changes should consider the ability to complete a new plan within the maximum allowable limits.

- The charts below are illustrations of the minimum standards required for making satisfactory progress in three different programs of study:

Master of Divinity: 3 Year Plan	First Year		Second Year		Third Year
	Fall	Spring	Summer	Fall + January	Spring	Fall	Spring
minimum cumulative GPA	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50
credits scheduled for completion	15.5	31.5	37.5	49.5	65.5	83.5	103
minimum cumulative credits completed	12	24	28	42	54	68	78

Master of Arts in Religion: 2 Year Plan	First Year		Second Year
	Fall	Spring	Fall	Spring
minimum cumulative GPA	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50
credits scheduled for completion	12	24	36	48
minimum cumulative credits completed	9	18	27	36

Master of Arts in Counseling: 3 Year Plan	First Year		Second Year		Third Year
	Fall	Spring	Fall	Spring	Fall	Spring
minimum cumulative GPA	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50	2.50
credits scheduled for completion	10	22	32	44	54	66
minimum cumulative credits completed	7.5	16.5	24	33	40.5	49.5

- Transfer Students: Transfer students are evaluated based on the number of hours accepted by Seminary of the Southwest. Once transfer credit has been evaluated by the Registrar and the Academic Dean, and the student has been awarded credit hours, then that student will fall under the same quantitative and qualitative requirements as previously mentioned based on that designated classification. Transfer grades are not factored into the student’s cumulative GPA for SAP purposes. The maximum time limits for eligibility for federal financial aid also apply to transfer students based on the number of credits accepted by Seminary of the Southwest.

APPEAL PROCESS FOR SUSPENSION BASED ON FINANCIAL AID SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS (SAP) STANDARDS

- Students who fail to meet the grade point average requirement or the completion rate requirement, or who will exceed the timeframe to complete 150% of the minimum number of credits in their program of study, will be placed in Financial Aid Warning Status for the following semester. Students will be notified via email of their warning status. Students who are in Financial Aid Warning Status may continue to receive Federal Student Aid.
- Students in Financial Aid Warning status who fail to meet the SAP requirements for the following semester will not be eligible to receive financial aid and will be placed in Financial Aid Suspension Status. These students may complete and submit a Financial Aid Appeal, Academic Plan, and a Personal Statement to the Financial Aid Appeals Committee for review. Should the Financial Aid Appeals Committee approve the Financial Aid SAP Appeal, the student will be placed in Financial Aid Probation Status.
- Students in Financial Aid Probation Status may continue to receive Federal Student Aid for one additional payment period. Students on Financial Aid Probation Status who fail to meet the SAP requirements for the additional payment period will be placed on Financial Aid Suspension Status and recommended for academic dismissal.

FINANCIAL AID SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS APPEAL

The Financial Aid Appeals Committee will consider Appeals based on the following reasons:

- Personal illness or serious injury supported by hospital records, insurance explanation of benefits, or statement of a licensed medical practitioner;
- Serious illness or injury of an immediate family member supported by hospital record, insurance explanation of benefits, or statement of a licensed medical practitioner;
- Any other extenuating circumstances that are supported by appropriate documentation and deemed reasonable by the Financial Aid Appeals Committee
- Financial Aid Appeal forms, Academic Plan forms, and Personal Statement forms are available from the Financial Aid Office.
- The completed Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeal, Academic Plan, and Personal Statement forms must be completed, signed, dated, and submitted to the Financial Aid Office. When the appeal package is determined to be complete by the Financial Aid Officer, the appeal will be submitted to the Financial Aid Appeals Committee for review. Incomplete appeals and incomplete forms will not be considered.

The Financial Aid Appeals Committee will establish and publish deadline dates each semester for the submission of Appeals. The latest an Appeal will be accepted for consideration for the current semester is the last date for withdrawal without penalty or the census date, whichever is later. Appeals received after the last date for withdrawal without penalty or the census date will be reviewed only at the discretion of the Financial Aid Appeals Committee.

Students will be notified via email regarding their outcome of their appeal. Decisions of the Financial Aid Appeals Committee are final.

Students on Financial Aid Suspension, who are otherwise in good standing and abiding by other school policies, may continue their coursework at Seminary of the Southwest; however, payment for those courses must be made by the student and Federal Student Aid will not be paid. Students may reestablish federal student aid eligibility by regaining GOOD standing based on the Graduate Financial Aid Satisfactory Academic Progress standards:

- A minimum Cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) of 2.500

- A minimum Completion Rate of 75%
- On schedule to complete current program of study within the 150% of the maximum number of hours required for graduation.

STUDENT ACADEMIC GRIEVANCE POLICY

The seminary aims to provide students with a fair and equitable learning environment, following the Conversation Covenant. In order to achieve this aim, the following policy and procedure is in place for students who have a grievance against a faculty member regarding any matter that adversely affects academic course work or conditions conducive to learning, unless the complaint is one of sexual harassment, in which case the procedure described in the seminary's Policy on Sexual Harassment shall be followed.

Procedure:

It is the intention of the seminary community to resolve grievances informally by consultation, if possible.

- Therefore the aggrieved student shall first approach the faculty member directly, explain the disagreement, and try to resolve it in a timely and mutually satisfactory way. If the student wishes, he/she may ask another faculty member for assistance in arranging such a meeting and facilitating discussion with the faculty member with whom he/she has a complaint. It would be appropriate for the student to request such assistance from or otherwise consult with, his/her faculty advisor, unless the faculty advisor is implicated in the grievance. However, the student may resort to any faculty member whom he/she deems helpful.
- If the dispute cannot be resolved by such informal consultation, the aggrieved student may take the second step of filing a formal written complaint with the office of the Academic Dean. The complaint shall describe both the incident that precipitated the grievance and the unsuccessful attempt to resolve it informally no later than fifteen days of regular fall or spring term time after the unsuccessful attempt to resolve the matter informally.
- If the faculty member in question is the Dean, the complaint shall be filed with the Chair of the Board of Trustees, and the Board shall determine the procedure by which they will respond. If the faculty member in question is the Academic Dean, the complaint shall be filed with the Dean, and the Dean shall designate another member of the faculty to fulfill the function of the Academic Dean described in the following procedure.
- The Academic Dean will promptly notify the student that the complaint has been received and will notify the faculty member that a complaint has been made against him/her. In this notice the Academic Dean shall also inform both parties that they are to arrange to meet with him/her within ten days of regular Fall or Spring term time, at which meeting they will have an opportunity to present information deemed relevant to the complaint. After hearing from all parties involved, within ten days of regular Fall or Spring term time the Academic Dean shall attempt to reconcile the dispute in a mutually satisfactory way, or may decide the case. At this stage of the process, the Academic Dean may solicit the assistance of professional counselors or mediators.
- If no mutually satisfactory resolution is reached, or if the Academic Dean has made a decision to which either party objects, the student or the faculty member may take the third step of requesting a hearing from the Faculty. The request shall be made in writing and addressed to the Dean and President.
- The Dean and President, the Academic Dean, and the faculty member against whom the complaint is being made will not be eligible to participate in the hearing.
- The hearing shall be held within ten days of regular Fall or Spring term time after the Dean and President receives the request. The Faculty shall give the aggrieved student and the accused faculty member at least five days' notice of the date and time of the hearing. All parties involved in the complaint and in the failed attempts to resolve it shall have opportunity to present information relevant to the case. The faculty shall then decide the matter.

- Within ten days of the faculty's decision either party may appeal to the Dean and President by sending him/her a written request to this effect. If the Dean and President decides to review the case, he/she may solicit statements from any of the parties involved regarding information that he/she wishes to reconsider.
- The decision of the Dean and President, which shall be rendered within ten days of the request for an appeal, is final.

STUDENT NON-ACADEMIC GRIEVANCE POLICY

The seminary wishes to respond to student complaints and grievances in a timely, thoughtful, and responsive manner. Several administrative and faculty committees exercise advisory and/or administrative responsibility over many aspects of seminary life. The student handbook lists these committees and they are referred to in this policy because they often represent the most expedient way to hear and resolve a complaint. A student who has a complaint is encouraged to examine this avenue. The procedure outlined below is designed to address those problems not resolved or able to be resolved by this means.

The following procedure is to be followed by a student with a complaint against another student or member of the faculty, or staff, or administration regarding matters that adversely affect the student or the broader community life at the seminary. Included within the scope of this procedure are complaints of improper conduct; serious or persistent problems; complaints concerning discrimination of any kind, including discriminatory application of seminary rules and procedures. This policy specifically excludes complaints or grievances that involve academic matters or matters of sexual harassment – other applicable seminary policies and procedures should be followed in those cases.

It is the intention of the seminary to resolve such grievances informally by consultation as much as possible. Therefore, the aggrieved student shall first approach the involved student or member of the faculty, staff, or administration directly, explain the disagreement, and try to resolve it in a mutually satisfactory way. If the student wishes, he or she may ask another member of the community for assistance in arranging such a meeting and facilitating discussion. This third person may be the student's advisor, a class representative, a seminary vice president, a department head or primary administrative officer, or someone else, and care should be taken in the choice of this third person so that (1) he or she would be as neutral as possible with respect to the grievance and its possible resolution and that (2) he or she would not likely be involved in any related formal complaint or appeal.

If the dispute cannot be resolved by such informal consultation, the aggrieved student may take the second step of filing a formal written complaint within the office of the Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance. The complaint shall describe both the incident that precipitated the grievance and the unsuccessful attempt to resolve it informally, and shall be filed within thirty calendar days after the incident that precipitated the grievance.

If the person who is the subject of the complaint is the Dean and President, the complaint shall be filed with the Chair of the Board of Trustees, and the Board shall determine the procedure by which it will respond. If the person in question is the Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance, the complaint shall be filed with the Dean and President.

The office of the Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance (or other party receiving the complaint, as above; all henceforth "Arbitrator"), shall within three business days send written notification to the aggrieved student that the complaint has been received and to the person involved that a complaint has been made against him or her. In this notice, the Arbitrator shall inform both parties that they will meet with him or her within five business days, at which time they will have an opportunity to present information relevant to the complaint. Within ten business days after this first meeting, the Arbitrator shall attempt to reconcile the dispute in a mutually satisfactory way, or may decide the case in accordance with seminary policies or other practices customary in educational institutions or in the Episcopal Church. The Arbitrator shall notify the parties concerned in writing of the details of the decision. During this process, the Arbitrator may solicit the assistance of advisors, professional counselors, or mediators.

If no mutually satisfactory resolution is reached, or if the Arbitrator has made a decision to which either party objects, the matter may be appealed to the Dean and President. This appeal shall be in writing and shall be made within five business days of the written notification of the decision to the complainant by the Arbitrator.

Upon receipt of this appeal, the Dean and President shall convene an ad hoc committee of three to review the matter, conduct appropriate inquiries, and make a recommendation for resolution to the Dean and President. The committee shall be named within seven days. Membership of the committee shall be drawn from the constituencies involved in the dispute and from the community at large, i.e., one student member, a second member representing the constituency of the person involved in the complaint, a third member representing a constituency not involved in the complaint. The work of the committee shall involve at least one hearing at which both parties to the dispute are present, and all parties involved in the case and in the failed attempts to resolve it shall have ample opportunity to present information relevant to the case. Within fourteen days of its appointment, the committee shall communicate its findings and recommendations for resolution in writing to the Dean and President.

The Dean and President shall review the communication of the ad hoc committee, consider its findings and recommendations for resolution, and make his or her decision, either upholding the findings and recommendations or revising them. That decision shall be communicated in writing to the parties involved within seven business days. The dean's decision is final.

Copies of all documents and correspondence connected with a formal complaint and resolution shall be maintained in an appropriate file in the office of the Executive Vice President for Administration and Finance.

STUDENT PAYMENT OF TUITION, FEES, AND AUXILIARY SERVICES POLICY

General Philosophy

The financing of a seminary education is a responsibility shared among the student; the student's spouse, if married; the Seminary; and, in some instances, third-party organizations and private individuals who voluntarily assist seminary students in the financing of their education through scholarship awards and general support.

The Seminary expects all students to carefully examine their financial preparedness to enter into and remain in Seminary well in advance of each semester. Students should ensure they have available income, liquid assets, and scholarship commitments evidenced in writing sufficient to meet their share of financing seminary education, including their ordinary living expenses while in seminary.

The Seminary intends to assist students in completing their seminary education with the lowest possible amount of student debt, subject to available resources and the provisions of this and other seminary policies. In addition to eligible financial assistance provided by the Seminary, students are expected to explore and pursue opportunities for outside scholarships and support in furtherance of their seminary education.

Student Account

At the time of matriculation, a student account is opened by the accounting department in the registered student's name for the purpose of recording financial activities related to the student's enrollment and utilization of auxiliary services. Financial activities include, for example, charges, payments, distributions, and adjustments for tuition, fees, books, scholarship awards, housing, utilities, health insurance, meals, and other auxiliary services.

A student account is an account receivable of the Seminary reflecting the student's seminary-related financial activities and the current financial obligation of the student to the Seminary. A student is responsible for timely payment of their student account, including bookstore account, according to the provisions of Seminary policy, practice, and common law.

Timely Payment of Tuition, Fees, and Auxiliary Services

Tuition and Fees

For returning students, full payment of tuition and fees is required six (6) calendar days prior to the first day of the academic term for which a returning student is registering.

For first semester students, full payment of tuition and fees is required on or before the semester's last day of registration adds and drops.

A student's registration is complete when full payment for the semester's charges has been received or satisfactory payment arrangements have been made with the accounting department.

Student Housing

Payment terms for housing accommodations leased by the Seminary to students are reflected in the student housing lease agreement. Full payment of rent is due on or before the 5th calendar day of the month, except as may otherwise be indicated in this policy.

A student with past due rent experience during the preceding 6 months is required at the time of registration to pre-pay the approaching semester's rent in full at least 6 calendar days prior to the first day of the academic term.

Housing Utilities

Student housing utilities — including electric, natural gas, telephone, cable television, and Internet service — shall be procured by and in the name of the student (or other financially responsible party) from local service providers. For a list of local utility service providers, please contact the student housing coordinator for the Office of the Executive Vice President.

Students are responsible for ensuring timely payment directly to providers for utility services furnished to their student dwelling. Utility services are not provided or maintained by the Seminary for student housing.

Bookstore Purchases

The Seminary encourages students to utilize the bookstore as a convenient resource for procuring texts and other supplies required for education. Bookstore purchases may be made using check, credit card, or a bookstore charge account.

Auxiliary Services

Auxiliary services are self-supporting activities for non-instructional support in the form of goods and services provided by the Seminary upon payment of a specific user charge or fee that is at least equal to the actual direct and indirect cost of providing the goods and services. Examples of auxiliary services include meals, student housing, parking, and certain events sponsored on the Seminary's campus. Payment of each applicable semester's student meal plan is due in full on or before the sixth day of class.

Satisfactory Payment Arrangement Options

- A student may pay their account by any acceptable form of payment. See Acceptable Forms of Payment below.
- At any time during the current academic year, a student registered for at least 6 credit hours may participate in the federal student loan program to pay any current academic year eligible costs of seminary education, including tuition, fees, books, student housing, utilities, certain auxiliary student services, and other eligible expenses. See a financial aid counselor in the Office of Enrollment Management for further details on the federal student loan program administered by the Seminary.
- A student anticipating receipt of scholarship award proceeds and other financial assistance after the due date for payment of tuition, fees, and auxiliary services must make satisfactory arrangements for the timely payment of all charges with the accounting department 6 calendar days prior to the first day of class. A student's anticipation of such proceeds is ordinarily manifest when accompanied by a written scholarship award letter or other form of reliable and verifiable financial commitment.

Bars to Registration and Class Attendance

Registration for fall, spring, and summer classes is opened to all students on dates published by the Registrar, subject to the provisions of this policy.

- A bar to registration is placed by the accounting department if, at the time of registration, a returning student has a past due financial obligation to the Seminary and has not made satisfactory payment arrangements with the accounting department.
- A bar to class attendance is placed by the accounting department if, on the last day of the semester's add/drop period, a student has a past due financial obligation to the Seminary and has not made satisfactory payment arrangements with the accounting department.
- A returning student is permitted to register and attend class once the returning student's current semester tuition and fees and past due financial obligation for the immediate past semester's charges is paid in full.
- See Clearing Bars to Registration and Class Attendance below.

Clearing Bars to Registration and Class Attendance

A bar to registration and class attendance is cleared upon the Seminary's receipt of full payment of a student's account or when satisfactory arrangements for timely payment of tuition, fees, and auxiliary services have been made by the student with the accounting department.

A bar to registration and class attendance is cleared, and registration and class attendance are permitted, when the conditions of this policy section are fulfilled.

Graduation, Award of Degree and Diploma, Participation in Commencement Exercises

The Seminary's Bylaws provide that "No degree shall be granted until all academic requirements have been met and all financial obligations have been satisfactorily discharged." The term "satisfactorily discharged" is interpreted to mean that a financial obligation to the Seminary is paid in full or satisfactory payment arrangements have been made by the student with the accounting department. A student who has met all academic requirements of their degree plan, but has not satisfactorily discharged their financial obligation to the Seminary, may participate in commencement exercises as a continuing candidate for graduation. It is the policy of the Seminary that a student's diploma and transcript will be issued only after all financial obligations to the Seminary have been fully paid.

Promissory Note Terms and Conditions Unaltered by Policy

A student who entered a promissory note with the Seminary for tuition, fees, and auxiliary services incurred prior to September 2, 2014 remains subject to the terms and conditions of that certain promissory note and this policy.

A student with an unpaid or past due promissory note for tuition, fees, and auxiliary services incurred prior to September 2, 2014 may continue to register for classes, subject to the provisions of this policy.

Acceptable Forms of Payment

Payment of a student's tuition, fees, books, and auxiliary services is accepted in the form of cash, check, credit card, wired funds, ACH, electronic check, distribution of institutional financial aid, outside scholarship grant payments, a student's participation in the federal student loan program, and third-party payment credited to the student's account.

Interpretation and Administration of Policy

The terms of this policy shall have their common and ordinary meaning. Interpretation and administration of this policy rests within the purview of the offices of dean and president and executive vice president.

STUDENT RECORDS POLICY

Student records for all current students include a file maintained in the Academic Dean's office, and a file maintained in the Registrar's office.

Files for Graduated or Withdrawn Students are maintained by the Registrar's office. The files from the Academic Dean's office and Registrar's office are merged into one file and archived in the Registrar's office. These files remain intact for 5 years. At the end of 5 years, the records retention policy for student records is enacted and some items are purged from the student file.

The final student file is copied in pdf format and kept on a password protected server on the seminary's network. The Registrar's office maintains these files. The original archived file is kept in fire proof filing cabinets on the seminary grounds.

Transcripts of all graduated or withdrawn students are copied in pdf format and kept on a password protected server on the SSW network. The Registrar's office maintains these files. An original archived transcript is kept in fire proof filing cabinets in the Registrar's office.

This policy on student records includes the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) with respect to their education records. These rights include:

1. The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the seminary receives a request for access.
 - a. Students should submit to the Dean, Academic Dean, or the Registrar written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The school official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected.
2. The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes is inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student's privacy rights under FERPA.
 - a. Students may ask the school to amend a record that they believe is inaccurate. They should write the school official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate. If the school decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the school will notify the student of the decision and advise the student of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.
3. The right to provide written consent before the university discloses personally identifiable information (PII) from the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.
4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the seminary to comply with the requirements of FERPA.

Students may request copies of information located in their student file, but all originals are the property of the seminary and will remain in the student's file.

STUDENT RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES POLICY

At the seminary, students are full members of this community of formation for ministry. Specific rights and responsibilities of students are set forth below. These rights are ensured by the faculty, administration, and board of trustees.

Students may participate in institutional decision-making through their elected student council, by serving on the Community Life and Worship committee, faculty search committees, and task forces, and by participation in Town Meetings called by the Dean at the request of the student officers. The Academic Dean, or a representative appointed by the Academic Dean, may be invited to attend meetings of the student body called by the student council.

Students are represented in the Board of Trustees by one Senior student officer who sits as a member of the Board with voice and no vote.

The seminary admits students without regard to race, sex, color, nationality, sexual orientation, or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the school. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, nationality, sexual orientation, or ethnic origin in the administration of its educational policies, admissions policies, financial aid and loan grants, or other school administered programs.

Academic grounds for dismissal are detailed in the Academic Code which is distributed to all students.

Personal grounds for dismissal include all forms of dishonesty, immorality (including sexual harassment) and disruptive behavior that might be harmful to the learning process or to the seminary's community life.

The decision to dismiss a student will be discussed by the Faculty and Administrative Council (FAC). After discussion the Dean and President and regular faculty will meet to vote on dismissal. In the case of a Louise Henderson Wessendorf Center for Christian Ministry and Vocation student, the director of The Center will also meet to vote on dismissal.

The student concerned may request a formal hearing from the faculty, after which, if the decision is reaffirmed, it will become final.

STUDENT TEACHING POLICY

Currently registered students will not be employed to teach courses within any of the seminary's academic curricula. Students may offer extracurricular courses on campus but only with the permission of the Academic Dean. Students may not charge fees for any such extracurricular course.

THERAPEUTIC COUNSELING POLICY

The seminary is able and willing to help defray therapy costs for students, spouses, and family members when there is reasonable and demonstrable financial need. This assistance is subject to the following guidelines:

1. That the therapy be obtained from an accredited counseling source: Psychiatrist, Psychologist, Pastoral Counselor, Social Worker, etc.
2. That no more than six one-hour sessions be funded with seminary assistance.
3. That the seminary pay no more than one-half the cost of therapy.
4. That prior to seminary funding, all other sources of outside assistance be sought: insurance, family, diocese, etc. The seminary's portion would be one-half the amended charge.

5. That these grants be made confidentially through the Dean and President or his/her representative. Faculty advisors may direct persons to the Dean and President for personal assistance in this matter.
6. That all therapy sources remit their bills directly to the Dean and President, after the counselee has paid the personal portion of therapy.
7. That the results of therapy be privileged and not subject to report to the Faculty or other persons or groups, without the written permission of the recipient of the therapy.
8. That in unusual circumstances the Dean and President may renew the six-week program for an additional six weeks, but that the program in no case be twice renewed.

TOBACCO-FREE CAMPUS POLICY

The campus of Southwest is a non-smoking, tobacco-free environment. Smoking and all other tobacco use is not permitted anywhere on campus, including building interior spaces, parking areas, sidewalks, walkways. Littering the campus with the remains of tobacco products or any other related waste product is prohibited.

About Non-Smoking, Tobacco-Free Campus Policy

The seminary recognizes its social responsibility to promote health, well-being, and safety of our community. This policy is part of the seminary's commitment to creating a healthy and sustainable environment for all members of our community, and is designed to lead to a culture of wellness.

Scope and Application

This policy applies at all times to all students, faculty, staff and visitors to campus.

Violation of Policy

Individuals noticing violations of the policy should endeavor to be non-confrontational and respectful to tobacco users when communicating our policy. Tobacco users are expected to adhere to the policy and likewise be respectful to former tobacco users and non-tobacco users. Enforcement of the policy will be achieved primarily through education, awareness, and a spirit of cooperation.

The seminary is not requiring students, faculty, and staff to quit using tobacco products, though we do encourage cessation of tobacco use. The seminary does expect, however, this policy to be followed while on campus and we are offering support to those who wish to stop using tobacco products.

Definitions

For the limited purposes of this policy, the following terms shall have the meanings ascribed to them as indicated:

Campus: the grounds, facilities, and other improvements situated within a single parcel of real property owned and operated by Seminary of the Southwest, locally addressed as 501 East 32nd Street, Austin, Texas, and within the area bounded by East 32nd Street, Harris Park Avenue, Rathervue Drive, and Duval Street, excluding seminary housing (see also definitions of "off-campus" and "seminary housing").

Off-campus: any location not situated within the campus of Seminary of the Southwest (see also definitions of "campus" and "seminary housing").

Need help quitting?

While the seminary is pleased to provide a non-smoking, tobacco-free campus environment — sustaining a healthy environment for those who work, study, and visit here — we also are mindful that members of our community will be personally challenged by this policy. That's why the seminary increases its commitment to help faculty, staff, and students who want to discontinue the use of tobacco products.

The seminary encourages tobacco users to seek out cessation programs, which are accessible through benefits provided by health insurance plans, government-sponsored programs, and private providers. Seminary employees enrolled in the Church Medical Trust group healthcare insurance plan may contact the insurer's customer service department for more details.

WHISTLEBLOWER PROTECTION POLICY FOR SUSPECTED FINANCIAL MISCONDUCT, UNLAWFUL ACTIVITY, DISHONESTY, ABUSE, AND HARASSMENT

INTRODUCTION

The Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest (“the Seminary”) is committed to the highest standards of business conduct and ethics in all of our institutional practices. As a Christian seminary we are bound by a common faith that demands honesty, truthfulness, and integrity in all spheres of life, including that of employment and fiscal responsibility. We are also required by that faith to protect those whose respect for honesty and regard for the truth leads them to the courageous and vulnerable step of identifying dishonesty or behavior that endangers the proper running of this institution.

PURPOSE AND APPLICATION OF POLICIES

The Seminary has adopted policies designed to protect employees (faculty, staff, administration and student workers) in carrying out their job duties, as well as policies and procedures to correct and appeal issues of concern, wrongdoing, abuse, and harassment. These policies are contained in the Policy Manual, Personnel Manual, Faculty Handbook, and Student Handbook.

In regular circumstances, the Seminary encourages and expects employees to share their questions, concerns or complaints directly with their supervisor. There are situations, such as when the complaint is against a supervisor or is an issue of potential abuse or harassment, when an employee should speak directly with the Executive Vice President, the Academic Dean, or the Dean and President. (Refer to Policies on Harassment and Employee Appeal Procedure contained in the aforementioned handbooks for specific guidelines.)

There may be occasions or unique circumstances which warrant an alternative channel of reporting, such as in the case of suspected financial misconduct and dishonesty. In these instances, regular reporting procedures may be insufficient to address these extenuating circumstances. In these types of circumstances involving observed or suspected abuse, harassment, financial wrongdoing, dishonesty or fraud, the Seminary has established this “Whistleblower Protection Policy” with special protections and reporting procedures.

This Whistleblower Protection Policy applies to all of the Seminary’s staff, whether full-time, part-time, or temporary employees, to all volunteers, to all providers of contracted services, and to all trustees and officers (individually and collectively, “Protected Persons”), each and all of whom shall be entitled to protection under this policy.

INSTITUTIONAL COMMITMENT

The Seminary is fully committed to deterrence, detection and correction of abuse, harassment, dishonesty and any financial misconduct. Discovery, reporting, investigation, and documentation of such activity provides a foundation for the issues to be appropriately addressed, protection of innocent parties, and appropriate corrective action against suspected or alleged offenders. Corrective action may include, but is not limited to, dismissal from employment or service and referral to law enforcement agencies when warranted.

REPORTING RESPONSIBILITIES & PROTECTIONS

This Whistleblower Protection Policy is intended to encourage and enable all Protected Persons to raise concerns within the Seminary for prompt investigation and action.

Examples and definitions of such misconduct include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Theft or other misappropriation of assets, including assets controlled or owned by the Seminary, our students, suppliers, or others with whom we have a business relationship
- Acceptance of significant gifts that are intended to unduly influence or obtain favor on the part of Seminary employees
- Misstatements and other irregularities in organizational records, including the intentional misstatement of the results of our activities
- Use of restricted funds in ways contrary to the documented wishes of our donors, except as authorized by the explicit action of the Board of Trustees
- Financial wrongdoing
- Forgery, deceptive alteration of documents, fraud, and other unlawful acts
- Harassment and intentional intimidation
- Sexual harassment

- Sexual misconduct
- Drug and alcohol abuse
- Any similar acts

The Seminary specifically prohibits these and any other illegal activities in the actions of its employees, managers, administrators, trustees, officers, student workers, and others responsible for carrying out the Seminary's activities. The Seminary's guiding principles for assessing behavior with reference to personal conflicts, supervision, sexual or racial harassment, and drug and alcohol abuse are defined in relevant institutional policies. Conduct, whether financial or personal, that is legal but contrary to Christian standards of truthfulness, fairness, and respect for others is prohibited and covered by this policy and may constitute grounds for disciplinary action, up to and including possible dismissal from employment or service.

All persons should understand that there are certain responsibilities inherent in making a whistleblower report. A Protected Person who acts in "good faith" in reporting observed or suspected misconduct shall be protected from any retaliation, including any adverse employment or academic consequences. Moreover, a person who seeks to retaliate against a Protected Person who has reported a concern in "good faith" under this policy will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and including possible dismissal from employment or service.

ACTING IN "GOOD FAITH"

Any person reporting a concern must act in good faith and have reasonable grounds for believing the information disclosed is credible and suggests wrongdoing, improper accounting or auditing practice, or an incidence of financial misconduct or dishonesty. The act of making allegations that prove to be unsubstantiated, or that prove to have been made maliciously, recklessly, or with the foreknowledge that the allegations are false, or to have knowingly evaded other campus policies and procedures for reporting or appeal, will be viewed as serious disciplinary offense and may result in discipline, up to and including possible dismissal from employment or service. Such conduct may also give rise to other actions, including civil lawsuits.

REPORTING PROCESS

Except in the case of more standard employee concerns not expressly covered under this Whistleblower Protection Policy, Protected Persons should report all incidents of suspected or observed wrongdoing by completing a Whistleblower Report Form and delivering same to the Seminary's Audit Committee, in care of the Chair of the Audit Committee, unless the report relates to the Chair of the Audit Committee, in which case the report shall be made to the Executive Chair of the Board of Trustees. All reports of observed or suspected wrongdoing received by the Audit Committee or by the Executive Chair of the Board of Trustees will be acknowledged. A Whistleblower Report Form is available online at the Seminary's SSW Intranet and SSW Board Portal websites at www.ssw.edu/connect.

CONFIDENTIALITY

In order to facilitate the Audit Committee's investigation, the Seminary encourages anyone reporting a violation to identify himself or herself when making a report. However, reports may be submitted anonymously by completing a Whistleblower Report Form according to the reporting process described in the preceding paragraph. Reports of observed or suspected violations will be kept confidential to the extent possible, with the understanding that confidentiality may not be maintained where identification is required by law or in order to enable the Seminary or law enforcement to conduct an adequate investigation.

INTERNAL INVESTIGATION

The Audit Committee will address all reported concerns expeditiously and with the highest degree of confidentiality possible, consistent with the need to conduct a thorough investigation. Appropriate corrective action will be taken if and as warranted by results of the investigation.

The Audit Committee is authorized to retain outside counsel, accountants, and other contacts and resources necessary to conduct a complete and accurate investigation. The Chair of the Audit Committee and the chair's designee are authorized to access Seminary records, as necessary and appropriate for the investigation of any reported wrongdoing. Custodians of records shall timely cooperate with any investigation undertaken by the Audit Committee. All investigations of suspected or observed wrongdoing will be conducted in accordance with applicable laws and established organizational procedures. Procedures will be followed by the Audit Committee to ensure the greatest level of care and complete fact finding possible. Records will be retained appropriately and in accordance with the law.

DISSEMINATION OF POLICY

This Whistleblower Protection Policy shall be disseminated in writing to all employees, student workers, officers, and trustees by inclusion in the Seminary's Policy Manual, Personnel Manual, Faculty Handbook, Student Handbook, and the online SSW Intranet and SSW Board Portal websites at www.ssw.edu/connect.

QUESTIONS

Questions regarding this policy can be directed to the Chair of the Audit Committee who shall be responsible for the administration, interpretation, and application of this policy in accordance with the authority granted by the Board of Trustees.

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

Family Education Rights and Privacy Act

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) afford eligible students certain rights with respect to their education records. (An “eligible student” under FERPA is a student who is 18 years of age or older or who attends a postsecondary institution.) These rights include:

1. The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days after the day the Seminary of the Southwest (SSW) receives a request for access. A student should submit to the registrar, dean, head of the academic department, or other appropriate official, a written request that identifies the record(s) the student wishes to inspect. The school official will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the school official to whom the request was submitted, that official shall advise the student of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.
2. The right to request the amendment of the student’s education records that the student believes is inaccurate, misleading, or otherwise in violation of the student’s privacy rights under FERPA.

A student who wishes to ask the school to amend a record should write the school official responsible for the record, clearly identify the part of the record the student wants changed, and specify why it should be changed.

If the school decides not to amend the record as requested, the school will notify the student in writing of the decision and the student’s right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.

3. The right to provide written consent before the university discloses personally identifiable information (PII) from the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent.

The school discloses education records without a student’s prior written consent under the FERPA exception for disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is a person employed by SSW in an administrative, supervisory, academic, research, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit personnel and health staff); a person serving on the board of trustees; or a student serving on an official committee, such as a disciplinary or grievance committee. A school official also may include a volunteer or contractor outside of SSW who performs an institutional service of function for which the school would otherwise use its own employees and who is under the direct control of the school with respect to the use and maintenance of PII from education records, such as an attorney, auditor, or collection agent or a student volunteering to assist another school official in performing his or her tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibilities for SSW.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by SSW to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the Office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202

Memorandum Regarding Directory Information

To: All Students

Academic Year 2015-2016

Release of student record information is generally not done at Seminary of the Southwest without the expressed, written consent of the student. There are, however, some exceptions.

For example, directory information includes the following; any may be released without the student's consent: name, address, telephone number, email address, dates of attendance, class and degree, photograph. Please note that you have the right to withhold the release of directory information. To do so, you must complete a "Request for Non-Disclosure of Directory Information" form, which is available from the Registrar's office. Please note two important details regarding placing a "No Release" on your record:

1. SSW receives many inquiries for directory information from a variety of sources outside the institution, including friends, relatives, prospective employers, and degree verification. Having a "No Release" on your record will preclude release of such information, even to those people.
2. A "No Release" applies to all elements of directory information on your record. SSW does not apply a "No Release" differentially to the various directory information data elements. The institution will honor your request to withhold any of the categories listed above but cannot assume responsibility to contact you for subsequent permission to release them. Regardless of the effect upon you, SSW assumes no liability for honoring your instructions that such information be withheld.

Please contact the Registrar's office for the "Request for Non-Disclosure of Directory Information form.

GRADUATION DECLARATION PROCEDURE

Students intending to graduate must declare their intent to graduate by completing and submitting the Graduation Declaration Form to the Registrar's office by the first of the month in which they intend to graduate. The Graduation Declaration Form can be found on the SSW Intranet by selecting: Departments, Registrar, and Forms.

INCLEMENT WEATHER PROCEDURES

In the case of inclement weather conditions or other emergencies you may call the main seminary number (512) 472-4133, where a message will be recorded regarding class cancellations and/or check email. You may also check the local television stations for information. Southwest follows the cancellation and late opening schedule followed by the University of Texas at Austin.

SENIOR CLASS GIFT PROCEDURE

Often in the spring the Senior Class decides to give the Seminary a gift in thanksgiving for their education and formation. After the class agrees on a particular gift, the class representatives should consult with the Dean and President before making final plans to purchase and to present the gift.

SOCIAL MEDIA GUIDELINES

Introduction: Social media is more than Facebook and Twitter. It includes blogs, online networks, and many other Internet-based tools for sharing and discussing information.

Following are best practices for use of social media at Seminary of the Southwest.

Be accurate: Make sure that you have all the facts before you post. It's better to verify info with a source first than to have to post a correction or retraction later. Cite and link to your sources whenever possible; after all, that's how you build community.

Be respectful: You are more likely to achieve your goals or sway others to your beliefs if you are constructive and respectful while discussing a bad experience or disagreeing with a concept or person. (The Conversation Covenant applies to social media, too.)

Be a valued member: If you join a social network like a facebook group or comment on someone's blog, make sure you are contributing valuable insights. Don't post information about topics like seminary events or a book you've authored unless you are sure it will be of interest to readers. Self-promoting behavior is viewed negatively and can lead to you being banned from websites or groups. Please, no selling.

Think before you post: There's no such thing as a "private" social media site. Search engines can turn up posts years after the publication date. Comments can be forwarded or copied. Archival systems save information even if you delete a post. If you feel angry or passionate about a subject, it's wise to delay posting until you are calm and clear-headed.

Maintain confidentiality: Do not post confidential or proprietary information about Southwest, its students, its alumni or faculty or staff. Use ethical judgment and follow the Conversation Covenant. Please, no personal information about yourself or someone else.

Don't spam: Use the space as a platform to share information about the seminary, topics of interest to our constituents.

Be transparent: If you participate in or maintain a social media site on behalf of the seminary, clearly state your role and goals. If you maintain a blog or social media site on behalf of yourself, do not use the seminary's name, logo, or institutional images to brand your site. (Note Seminary of the Southwest's Brand Policy within the Student Handbook.)

It's a conversation: Talk to your readers like you would talk to real people in professional situations. Don't be afraid to bring in your own personality and say what's on your mind. Consider content that's open ended and invites response. Encourage comments. You can broaden the conversation by citing others who are blogging about the same topic and allowing your content to be shared or syndicated.

Did you screw up? If you make a mistake, admit it. Be upfront and be quick with your correction. If you're posting to a blog, you may choose to modify an earlier post—just make it clear that you have done so.

Be a leader: You don't need to respond to every criticism or barb. Invite differing points of view. Be careful and considerate.

Have fun: Social media is about connecting, helping, learning, contributing and having fun.

WITHDRAWAL PROCEDURE

Failure to register

When a student enrolled in a program fails to register in a given semester, the Registrar will notify her/him that she/he must indicate an intention either to take a leave of absence or to withdraw from the program. The Registrar's notification will advise the student of the requirement, in the case of a leave of absence, to notify the seminary each semester of her/his intention to remain on leave, and or the requirement to reapply, in the case of withdrawal, for readmission. Failure to reply to the Registrar's notification is, in effect, a withdrawal, and the Academic Dean may then charge the Registrar to close the student's file.

Indication by students on leave of absence to remain enrolled.

Students on leave of absence must notify the Registrar, each semester of their intention to remain enrolled. Failing such notification, the Academic Dean may then charge the Registrar to close the student's file at the end of the semester in question.

Time limit for leave of absence

A leave of absence is granted for no more than two consecutive semesters. A student may appeal to the Academic Affairs committee for an extension beyond that time, no later than 30 days prior to the beginning of the semester in which the extension is to begin. Failure to secure permission for a leave of absence will result in the student having to apply for readmission to the seminary.

Withdrawals

A student planning on withdrawing from a course after the add/drop period must contact the Registrar's office in writing. This can be via hand-delivery, email, or U.S. mail. The Tuition Refund Policy and the Return of Title IV Funds Policy will be applied.

Students wishing to withdraw from the institution must contact the Registrar's office in writing. This can be via hand-delivery, email, or U.S. mail. If the student applies for readmission, the reasons for withdrawal will be taken into account. If a student who withdrew while on probation applies for readmission, the Academic Affairs Committee will consider the case.
